Jumbo's Love at First Sight.

(From the New York Tribune.)

Jumbo was introduced to his fellow captives at the Mission Square Garden yesterday afternoon. When the performance was over and the immense crowd had departed, eighteen elephants of various sizes were led into the south ring and ranged in a line on the south side. Queen was not there, as she had already received the honor of an introduction to the distinguished foreigner, and Pilate was absent, his surly disposition and unruly temper unfitting him for good society. The elephants being all arranged according to their rank, Jumbo came slowly into the ring, accompanied by the keeper. When the elephants saw the huge mountain of flesh, swaying from side to side, coming down the track, there was a momentary thrill of surprise along the line. One or two of the youngest elephants gave audible evidence of their agitation. They were quickly frowned down by the older ones, and the whole party put on a most dignified and serene appearance. As Jumbo passed along he was greeted with uplifted trunks. He returned the salute and shook trunks with the party in a friendly but rather bored manner. After exchanging civilities with Jumbo, an elephant would run his trunk along the monster's back. One ill-bred little elephant, not used to good society, gave his tail a pull just as he got past, and then looked innocent and appeared to be searching intently for peanuts in the sawdust. There was no sign of fear among the animals, and Jumbo seemed to consider the thing "an awful bore, you know," until he came to the elephatine damsel Baby. When he saw her, he stopped, and reaching out his trunk just touched her and drew it back again, all the time looking at her in a most interested and loving manner. It was evidently a case of love at first sight. Baby was naturally thrown into a flutter of excitement, but she managed to keep up a decent appearance of coyness. She finally consented, however, to shake trunks with her admirer, and after a while allowed herself to be caressed, even going so far as to return her lover's endearments. The other female elephants present were scandalized, and wound their trunks together as if saying: "Oh, the bold-faced thing, did you ever!"

Jumbo was walked up and down the line several times, the elephants doing their best to attract his attention as he passed. But he had eyes only for Baby, and when at length they were all started around the track that giddy damsel ran on ahead, disdaining to walk with the others, so proud was she, apparently, of her gigantic lover. When Jumbo was finally led out of the ring to his stable, he cast a lingering look over his shoulder that gave evidence that he had ceased to mourn for his English Alice.

(Per steamer North Pacific.)

In spite of all that has been said about the satisfactory ventilation of the Mont Cenis tunnel, it is reported that the locomotive engineers have to wear mouth pieces attached to reservoirs of fresh air while traversing it.

A new process of preserving meat has been introduced in England, in which, instead of steeping the carcass in an antiseptic, the preservative chemical, boracic acid, introduced into the live animal, and by the action of the heart is sent through the blood vessels and capillaries into every part of the body. The animal is first stunned, whereupon its left jugular vein is laid bare and the liquid injected, after which it takes about two minutes for it to go through the whole vascular system. Meat treated in this way can be preserved at ordinary summer temperature for five or six weeks.

In launching the gigantic English turret-ship, appropriately named Colossus, on March 21, electricity was employed by means of an ingenious contrivance, which connected the dog shores with a large magnet; and in a similar manner the christening was performed. Simultaneously with the breaking of the bottle over the ship's nose a musical instrument inside an ornamented box was set at work, and "Rule Britannia" was the result. By this time the course was reported clear, and as the ship gave evidence of anxiety to leave the cradle it was deemed advisable, though ten minutes before time, to let her go. The pressure of the launching button was followed by a heavy thud. The weight had fallen, and the dog-shores had been knocked away. The ship moved instantly, and the huge mass of 4,420 tons—the heaviest ever launched from the Portsmouth yard—glided gracefully down the inclined plane into the harbor, amid the music of the several bands and the enthusiastic cheers of the multitude.

HAGYARD'S Pectoral Balsam is composed of the most healing balsams and gums. The Balsams, which enter into its composition, were used by the natives when America was first discovered, and are combined with other vegetable tonics, so blended together, that it is a specific for all affections of the throat and lungs. Thousands of bottles are used annually, and it is considered one of the standard preparations of the day. 5

THE CHANNEL TUNNEL.

In the near future—say twenty years or so hence—the average Englishman will smile at the opposition the great project of the channel tunnel is now meeting. Viewed as an engineering accomplishment the work would be the most stupendous ever undertaken on earth. Looked at as a commercial enterprise, it would be one of the most profitable. From a military point of view, however, the tunnel is regarded as calculated to destroy England's insular position. Sir Garnet Wolseley and other distinguished military authorities have condemned the work, and although Sir Frederick Roberts and other equally distinguished authorities are of a different opinion, the British government have ordered operations to cease and have closed the the works. What possible danger from invasion could result from the construction of a tunnel that might be flooded in a few moments or blown up in an instant commercial men and railway engineers are unable to understand. It is admitted on all sides that the tunnel would confer great commercial benefits upon the empire; but the old country's love of isolation cannot be overcome by possible commercial advantages. Undoubtedly in England's insularity lies the great secret of her power and glory; but with steam, electricity and dynamite at her command a successful invasion of the country through the tunnel would bean impossibility. The great project may be stifled for a time; but the public needs will eventually outweigh every other consideration, and men now entering their majority will live to see the tunnel an accomplished fact. Lord PALMERSTON'S attempt to prevent the building of the Suez Canal is now universally admitted to have been a mistake. GLADSTONE'S more successful effort to prevent the construction of the Channel tunnel will soon come to be equally regarded as a blunder.

AN ATLANTIC FERRY VIA NEWFOUNDLAND.

The rapid prosecution of the works of the now railway across Newfoundland has brought into view the possibility of shortening by something like a thousand miles the length of the sea voyage between Europe and America. Indeed, the American firm of contractors who have undertaken the construction of the railway from St. John's to the west coast are already endeavoring to secure the co-operation of the authorities of both the Dominion of Canada and the Island of Newfoundland in organizing a system by which trains from St. John's to the station at the western terminus of the Newfoundland Railway may be there taken on board a steamer specially constructed for the purpose, and carried across to the opposite coast of Cape Breton Island, whence a short branch-line would connect with the whole of the system of railway in Canada and the United States. The necessity of a bridge across the Gut of Canso, which divides Cape Breton Island from the mainland of Nova Scotia, would be the only difficulty in the way of carrying out this scheme; but such a bridge would present no greater engineering difficulties than the splendid railway bridge across the St. Lawrence at Montreal. The steamers which would have to be employed to carry the train across the mouth of the St. Lawrence have long been in use on the great lakes for carrying the trains to and from the Canadian and American railway systems, and their construction for, and navigation in, the proposed new service would be a matter of no difficulty. If this scheme is carried out the sea voyage between Queenstown and any part of Canada or the States will be shortened by at least 1,000 miles, and the most difficult and tedious parts of the voyage, in which fogs are usually most prevalent, would be avoided. The reduction of the sea voyage would mean a saving of something like three days in the time taken in the transport of mails and merchandise between New York and Queenstown, while the commercial relations of Newfoundland with the whole of Canada and Europe would be multiplied indefinitely. There is, no doubt, a great future in store for Newfoundland, and the railway will confer inestimable advantoges upon the Colony. If this great work can be utilised in the manner suggested as a link in the line of communication between Europe and America, it will prove itself not only of Colonial, but of Imperial and world-wide advantage.

THE TRICYCLE is coming more and more into use in Britain. The riders are not nearly so much recruits from the ranks of bicyclists as men who have done nothing in the way of ridinng before. It is convenient for ministers visiting in country parts, for elderly gentlemen who donot take comfortably to bicycles, and those with roomy seats are very convenient for young couples on their honeymoons. Dr. B. W. Richardson has just published an article recommending moderate bicycle exercise as a first rate loosener of stiff joints, and tonic for those who, feeling that they are not up to much exercise, have left off taking any at all and so have reached a state when they have to begin with great care and moderation. We can hardly believe that tricycles will supersede bicycles for young men, although the three-wheeled machine is now made not very much heavier than the two-wheeled. The elevated position and the feeling—a pleasant one to the young and strong—of being in some little danger, are on the side of the bicycle, and as yet the bicyclist can beat the tricyclist not only on the racing track but in long journeys.

IN cases of Chronic disease which doctors have failed to cure, Burdock Blood Bitters has achieved its greatest triump. All diseases of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, Rheumatism, Piles, Female Complaints and all forms of lost Vitality are promptly cured by this great renovating Tonic. Trial bottles only cost 10 cts. 6

MANY people make drug shops of their stomachs, in the attempt to relieve a simple attack of liver complaint, when with a dose or two of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the complaint might be easily and pleasantly obviated. Colic, piles, hurts, corns, lame back and swelled neck, are also among the troubles which it cures.

BOB INGERSOLL AT HOME.

A Happy Domestic Circle—The Members the Colonel's Family—His Wife and Daughters Described.

Colonel Ingersoll's famous Sunday evenings at home with his friends are this winter changed to Saturday evenings, not in deference to an awakening conscience or Talmage's vituperations, but for the best of domestic reasons, to wit, the servants who must have their Sunday night out if the heavens fall. Mrs. Ingersoll's two daughters are not in society this winter, and in consequence she keeps no reception day or afternoon, bidding every one to come on Saturday evenings, when the Colonel is at home. There is a pleasant family group to welcome one, and Mrs. Ingersoll, with her mother, sisters, and children, make up a home circle not to be equalled around the fireside of any personage in the land. Their's is the truly happy family, and all their home relations are most beautiful and tender. Mrs. Ingersoll is tall, and fine figure, with a clear cut, strong face, a quick smile, flashing eyes and smooth black hair. Her laugh is particularly merry, and there is matter enough in the Ingersoll parlours any evening to keep its clear cadence ringing gayly. This charming lady wears particularly large and brilliant solitaires in her ears, and in a crimson satin dress, with fine point lace laid around the square neck, is a perfect picture of a handsome and happy matron. No one understands the royal art of entertaining more thoroughly than she, and each weekly gathering bears testimony to her social and domestic genius, for she shines as a housekeeper no less than as a hostess. The two daughters are quiet, pretty young girls, the eldest, Miss Eva, being the possessor of a rich and clear soprano voice, a wonderful crown of rippling brown hair, and a pair of soft, shy eyes. Miss Maud is a plump young lady with the roguishness of youth in her eyes and dimples, and a demure way of

SAYING DROLL THINGS.

Mrs. Farrel, Mrs. Ingersoll's sister, has the same clear, brunette face, dark hair and vivacious manners, and the group this winter includes pretty Miss Farrel of Peoria, who is visiting the city. All the celebrities and the wits in town find their way to the Ingersoll home, and, confined to no official or social set, the gatherings are always representative of the whole country. Last week a boyish-looking man with a smooth face and tossed back hair, who conversed in a quick and graceful way with every one in turn, raised innumerable laughs and joined with all in hearty glee, proved to be the ex-Rev. Miln, of Chicago, over whose sensational sermon and declaration of disbelief the country has been ringing. He was an Englishman originally, but his manners and accent give no indication of that now, and he was as jolly and all at ease as if he had always been a wanderer from the flocks. The host himsetf presided over the punch bowl, filling it, stirring it, and adding constantly to the compound of all strong and fragrant things, and the wit that circulates around its enchanted rim is bubbling and continues for whole hours.

PRESENTIMENT.

Singular Case of Second Sight Two Centuries Ago.

The "Records of Westminster" contain the following: Tuesday, May 12, 1687.—This day the weather came south-west a little about three o'clock P.M., and about four we anchored in Manson Road, and there found on the road Captain Barnaby, Captain Bristow and Captain Brown, all of them bound for Lessaria to load. 13th May—This day, about ten o'clock in the afternoon, I went on board of Captain Barnaby's ship, and about two o'clock in the afternoon we weighed anchor and sailed all of us for the Island of Lessaria, the wind was north-northwest and better weather. 14th May—About two o'clock we saw the Island of Lessaria, and about seven we came to an anchor off the said Island in twelve fathoms water; then we were west-south-west.

15th May—We had the observation of Mr. Booty this day. I and Mr. Ball, merchant, went on shore in Capt. Barnaby's boat to shoot coneys upon Shumbalon and when we had done we called all our men together by us, and about 3.44 in the afternoon to our great surprise, we all of us saw two men running toward us with such swiftness that no living man could run half so fast as they did run when all of us heard Capt. Barnaby say Lord bless me, the formost is old Booty, my next door neighbor, but he said he did not know the other that ran behind. He was in black clothes, and the formost in grey, then Capt. Barnaby desired all of us to take an account of the time and pen it down in our pocket-books, and when we got on board we wrote it down in our journals, for we saw them into the flames of fire, and there was a great noise, which greatly afrighted us all, for we none of us never saw or heard the like before. Capt. Barnaby said he was certain who it was we saw running over Shumbton and into the flames of fire. Then coming home to England, and lying at Gravesend. Capt. Barnaby's wife came on board 6th October, 1687, at which time Capt. Barnaby and Capt. Brown sent for Capt. Bristow and Mr. Ball merchant, to congratulate with them, and after some discourse Capt. Barnaby's wife started up and said my dear, I will tell you some news, old Booty is dead. He directly made answer that we, all of us, saw him run into hell. Afterward Capt. Barnaby's wife told a gentleman in London of his acquaintance, what her husband had said, and he went and told Mrs. Booty the whole affair. Upon that Mr. Booty arrested Capt. Barnaby, in a thousand pound action, for what he had said of her husband. Capt. Barnaby gave bail, and it came to a trial in the Court of King's Bench, and they had Mr. Booty's wearing apparel brought into court.

The sexton of the parish and all the the people that were with him when he died swor to what time he died, and we swor to our journals, and it came to the same time within two minutes. Ten of our men swor to the buttons of his coat, and they were covered with the same sort of cloth his coat was made of, and so it was passed. The jury asked Mr. Spink if he knew Mr. Booty. He answered, I never saw him till he ran by me on the burning mountain. Then the judge said, Lord have mercy upon me, and grant I may never see what you have seen; one, two or three men may be mistaken, but thirty men can never be mistaken—so the widow lost her cause.

HORSES AND CATTLE.

THEIR ENHANCED VALUE.

WHAT IS BEING DONE TO IMPROVE THE STOCK.

Horse stock is now quoted fifty per cent. higher in all our markets than it was five years ago. The rapid settlement of the vast country east of the Rockies has caused a scarcity in Oregon and Washington. The exports, eastward principally, to Wyoming the present year is put at 16,000. Of course this includes breeding stock or the herds as they run. Of cattle the number is put at 140,000; sheep, 200,000.

The large immigration to Oregon and Washington, causing the opening up of a large area of wheat land, calls for increased horse stock, and breeders find ready sale for all good horses. In view of this we are gratified to find our own stock farmers trying to improve the quality. Mr. Barnard has imported two very fine animals for his own herds, which are said to comprise 600 animals of all ages. It is his intention to move the greater part to the Bow River country. Mr. Vernon is improving his stock, having imported two large and very fine animals. Mr. Harper, also a large breeder, has about 400 of all ages. His importations consist of two fine horses, a large Spanish jack that came from Barcelona, Spain, and a Maltese janet, both costly animals. Others, no doubt, will pay more attention to horses than heretofore. While notice is called to cattle and their probable increased value, more attention will be paid to the improvement of stock, Mr. Harper having brought in seven thoroughbred bulls by the last boat.

Public Dumping Place.

The city fathers have built a sea-wall across the mouth of Finlayson's ravine and invite citizens to dump earth or clean rubbish within the wall, so as to fill up the cavity and, bye and bye, form a solid road-bed on the Government street grade. After this small matter has been effected the fathers should obtain possession of the James bay mud flats, build a sea wall in front, fill up the flats and then dispose of the lots at public auction or otherwise.

PERSONAL.—Mr. John Yost of the widely-known San Francisco firm of H. S. Crocker & Co., and Mr. L. L. Bromwell, Secretary of the California Insurance Company, are staying at the Driard.

What Some People Say.

That Rose Eytinge, the actress, the day after she had obtained a divorce from her husband married Cyrille Searle, the actor.

That the gentleman who sent us 7 fine trout has our thanks. The enjoyment in eating them was enhanced by the fact that they were not caught with salmon roe bait.

That the fondness of trout for salmon roe to the refusal of all other bait is said to be a libel on the species. A person who has tried the fish with roe reports that as his experience.

That many full baskets of fish are brought in daily from creeks and lakes hereabouts.

That a little 3-year old girl would like to know if it is correct to say to-day, to-night, to-morrow, why should it not be right to say to-morning for this morning?

That Villard's steamship Walla Walla will return for a cargo of Nanaimo coal for Portland.

That a scheme for closing the coal mines at Seattle and drawing the coal supply of the coast from Vancouver Island is under consideration by the Northern Pacific railway company.

That Mr. B. W. Pearse and family will shortly return from England.

The Conversazione.

The entertainment on Thursday evening opened with the song "Nancy Lee," by Mr. H. Kent, who was accompanied by Mrs. W. Wilson. The song was encored. Mrs. Henderson followed with the "Stonewall Jackson March and Quickstep," composed by her while the Southern war was in progress. It is a grand, martial piece; and being encored the lady played the "Askew Quickstep," also composed by her and dedicated to the Mayor of New Orleans. Miss Esther Johnston recited very prettily the "Silverplated Teapot," and being encored threw the audience into convulsions of laughter by reciting that favorite poem of children 50 years ago as well as of the present day "Number One." Songs by Miss Jane Dickson, who was accompanied by Mrs. Henderson, and by Mr. John Nicholles, who was accompanied by Mrs. Nicholles were encored. A beautiful vocal quartette in which Mrs. D. R. Harris, Mrs. H. S. Mason, Mr. Beeton and Mr. Offerhaus took part was loudly encored. The title of the quartette is "Ah! tell me not," and it was sung with pathos and beauty. A lovely violincello solo was played by Bishop Cridge, who was accompanied by Miss Cridge. Of course there was an encore; and equally of course a charming overture was played in response. After a humorous reading, Mr. Offerhaus, accompanied by Mrs. D. R. Harris, sang "Storming the Bridge" in a full, well-rounded voice. He was encored and sang another martial air. Mr. T. Barry, (accompanied by Mr. Cross), played a solo on the flute and being encored gave a medley composed of old Scotch, Irish, and English airs. The playing of this gentleman must be heard to be appreciated. Mr. Beeton came next with "Friar of Orders Grey," a piece well suited to his voice, and was very properly encored. A duett—"Music," by Miss Blenkinsop and Miss Carmichael was a charming rendition, and when the audience asked for more the fair songstresses gave "Music and her Sister Song." Miss Gosnell, who was accompanied by Mrs. Henderson, sang the difficult operatic air of "Bid Me Discourse," delightfully. In the high notes and trills this lady is most effective. An enthusiastic encore called forth the ballad, "Should He Upbraid?" which was also delightfully rendered. The entertainment was for the benefit of the Protestant Orphans' Home; but to our keen regret none of the little ones in whose interest the services of the performers were freely given were present. Would not some of the elder inmates of the Home have enjoyed the entertainment? They have not seen much of the sunnyside of life's picture. A few rays shed on their path occasionally would add to their happiness.

Supreme Court.

(Before Sir M. B. Begbie, C. J., and Justices Crease and Gray.)

FRIDAY, May 5.

Mr. Theo. Davie, before the ordinary business of the day was proceeded with moved the call to the bar of this province of Mr. Pallis Emilius Irving and his admission to practice as a solicitor. The fees due to the society had been duly paid and three months' notice in the Government Gazette of Mr. Irving's intention to apply had been given. Mr. Davie produced the certificate of the Benchers of the B. C. Law Society showing that Mr. Irving had proved to their satisfaction that he had been called to the bar of Ontario and admitted to practice as a solicitor in the superior courts of that province; also a certificate signed by Mr. Justice Burton, one of the judges of the Ontario Court of Appeal, that at the date of the certificate, December 31st, 1881, Mr. Irving was in good standing.

The court having inspected the documents produced,

The Chief Justice remarked that Mr. Irving had complied with all the rules required in the case; and Mr. T. Davie had opened the door for another competitor in his own profession and he hoped that Mr. Irving would be as successful in the profession as his introducer had hitherto been.

Mr. Irving was then sworn, fully admitted and introduced to the judges.

Mr. D. M. Eberts was upon motion of the same counsel also admitted as a barrister, certificates and credentials being satisfactory. Mr. Eberts took the necessary oath and was presented in due form.

Mr. T. Davie then introduced Mr. J. P. Walls who had been called by the Benchers to the Bar. The call of the Benchers was produced dated 1st May, 1882.

The Chief Justice remarked that Mr. Davie would be certainly entitled to be termed the father of these members of the profession. (Laughter.)

Mr. Justice Gray—If he is not he will at all events be their father in law. (Laughter.)

Mr. Walls was then admitted in due form.

Mr. Hett considered that Mr. Walls should take precedence as his call was by the Benchers and was dated some days previously.

The Court so ordered.

MCNEILL ETALS vs. MCNEILL ETALS.

Mr. Johnson for the plaintiffs moved, by way of appeal, to rescind an order of Mr. Justice Gray made on the application of the Registrar notwithstanding the opposition of the parties to the action through their counsel. The action was commenced four years ago for the partition of certain real estate of the late Capt. W. H. McNeill; and the parties are very numerous, there being nine plaintiffs, including several married women, and twelve defendants, including several infants who are represented by guardians ad litem. Under the directions of the Court the estate was surveyed and divided into several allotments by Mr. R. C. Cridge, C.E., and on the 16th of Nov. 1880, a final decree was made, assigning the several allotments, in accordance with Mr. R. C. Cridge's plan, to the parties as entitled in severalty, and directing the costs of all parties to be taxed and paid by the parties in proportion to their respective shares. Under this decree a deed of partition was prepared and executed by or on behalf of the several parties. One of these parties, Alfred McNeill the younger, living abroad, and the solicitors of the parties being unable to obtain his signature to the deed, the late Mr. Justice Robertson made an order under the Trustee Acts declaring Alfred McNeill, jr., to be a trustee of his undivided share in the portions of the estate allotted to the other parties, and appointed and ordered the registrar of the court to execute the partition deed for him, which the registrar accordingly did. Subsequently the registrar being informed, and believing that the survey and plan were incorrect, refused to tax the costs and presented a petition to Mr. Justice Gray for directions, whereupon that learned judge ordered the registrar not to tax the costs until further order, but to communicate direct with Alfred McNeill, jr., and other parties to the action and report the result to the Court. Mr. Johnson said he had consulted with some of his clients respecting the alleged errors, and they had come to the conclusion that it would be ruinous to undo all that had been done, that none of the parties were willing to bear the expense, and that the errors were not so important as had been alleged. He therefore opposed the order upon the grounds: First, that it was not made on the application of any party to the action, but was opposed by all the parties. Second, that by an order in Chambers made without evidence it reverses a decree of the court made upon evidence. Third, that it ignores the right of parties to be represented by solicitors and counsel, and the privilege of solicitors and counsel to represent parties. Fourth, that it brings the suit to a deadlock.

Hon. Justice Gray considered that Mr. Johnson's application was a reasonable and just one. He then explained the nature of the case and the circumstances connected with such a complicated suit. The registrar had discovered during the time that the estate was being wound up that a very serious mistake had been made in the measurement of the estate in question, so that a considerable loss would accrue to several of the claimants. He thought the whole suit would have to be reopened.

Mr. Johnson stated that at present none of the parties entitled to portions of the estate could convey, mortgage, or in any way derive benefit from the property that had been left by the late Capt. McNeill.

Hon. Justice Gray contended that it would have been entirely wrong to have forced a sale of this property three or four years ago when it was worth but little. Now it was worth much more.

The Chief Justice remarked that perhaps if property continued to increase in value it might eventually pay law expenses.

Mr. Johnson explained that the alleged errors were not so serious as had been represented and his clients were unwilling to open up the whole case as by so doing it would be ruinous to the estate. His desire was to close the suit so that his clients could deal with their claims as well as to recover costs. He thought all the plaintiffs would accept the plan that had been produced and rather than reopen the suit and supply money for so doing they would abandon the whole estate.

Mr. Hett stated that his client Alfred McNeil was willing to abide by the decision already aimed at.

Hon. Justice Gray remarked that the whole difficulty arose from an error in the survey and that he was exceedingly anxious the whole thing should be settled. No one could hold a title that would be worth very much when it could be proved that the map is all wrong.

It was decided to refer the survey to a second surveyor now to be named to ascertain the outside boundaries of the McNeil estate with notice to the neighboring properties, namely, J. D. Pemberton and Craswell and others. Directed further that the taxing of costs be proceeded with up to the date of the survey according to the decree. Further directions were reserved.

Burns vs. Bailey—Mr. E. Johnson for plaintiff and Mr. Drake for defendant. An appeal from a judgment of Mr. Justice Crease in favor of the plaintiff. The case was partly heard when the court adjourned.

Marine.

Steamer Alexander will tow the ship Queenstown to Departure Bay this morning to load with coal for San Francisco.

The Barque Yuca will proceed to Port Townsend in tow of the Grappler this morning.

READY FOR SEA.—Repairs on the ship Queenstown are completed and she will leave the harbour this morning.

SUICIDE.—A Chinaman named Ah King committed suicide yesterday afternoon by hanging himself with a large dog chain at the old Rock Bay Tannery. The unfortunate man was formerly a well-to-merchant at Cassiar; but by some means or other lost a considerable sum of money, $4000 or $5000, a portion of which was not his own. This seemed to have preyed upon his mind to such an extent that for some time past he has not been right in his mind and has often threatened to make away with himself. Yesterday he eluded those of his countrymen who were deputed to watch his movements and got to the place where he was found by Supt. Todd about 4:30 p.m. quite dead, but still warm; with his feet on the floor and his body leaning against the wall. A Chinaman discovered him some time before but got frightened and ran off to town to give the alarm instead of unfastening the chain by which the man was suspended. Had he done so the suicide's life would undoubtedly have been saved. Parties were out in the country searching for him all the day. The man was intelligent and honest; and was much esteemed by whites who knew him in Cassiar as well as his own countrymen.

REFORMED CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of the congregation of the Reformed Episcopal Church was held last evening when Mr. A. A. Green and Mr. Wilson were elected Churchwardens for the Bishop and clergy and the congregation respectively. The annual financial report was presented was adopted. An enthusiastic vote of thanks was accorded to the ladies connected with the conversazione for raising $600 in aid of the church fund.

OBSCENE SCRIBBLING.—In various parts of the town, on sidewalks and other places, obscene, trashy writing is to be found. It may not be amiss to warn parties who are guilty of this disreputable conduct that police officers are on the alert for the apprehension of such offenders, that punishment for misdemeanors of this description is very heavy and that the law will be administered with the utmost severity.

THE LATE CAPT. BAMFIELD.—A correspondent writes that Bamfield first made his appearance in this province as a carpenter's mate on board H. M. S. "Constance" in the summer of 1847. When the "Constance" was paid off he migrated to this country and established himself as a trader on Barclay Sound. He is said to have been murdered by Indians sometime during the summer of 1860.

FROM THE NORTH.—The Grappler arrived last evening from Wrangel and way ports with the Quickstep in tow from Departure Bay. The trip was a rough one both up and down. Canneries are all very busy preparing for the catch; great fears are entertained of scarcity of hands. Mr. H. Saunders received a case of fresh salmon from the Windsor cannery, the first of the season. The steamer Otter was met at Skeena going up.

FROM YALE.—Steamer Western Slope arrived from the head of navigation at 9:30 last night, having left Hope at 8:30 a. m. Capt. Moore reports the river rising fast. Mr. Onderdonk's new steamer was launched on Thursday and is named the "Scuzzy." The Slope brought down about 40 passengers and 4 bags of mail. She will leave for Yale at 11 o'clock this morning.

YALE.—A middle-aged man named Foley died Sunday evening at Camp 16 of bronchitis.....Mr. Sproat having been referred to as a possible candidate for the local House rulers wishes to say he has never entertained the idea. He suggests, however, that of the three members for Yale district one should be selected from the river district.—Sentinel.

FUNERAL.—The funeral of Mr. E. Powers took place from the residence of his daughter, Cadboro Bay road, yesterday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Smith conducted the services. There was a large attendance. The remains were deposited in Rock Bay cemetery.

EXCURSION.—The French Benevolent society are preparing to have an excursion on the 28th inst.

THE DOGFISHERY.—The steamer Skidegate sailed for the dog-fishery station on Queen Charlotte island yesterday.

Patronage Running Riot.

TO THE EDITOR:—I wish to bring to the notice of the public the manner in which the provincial government dispenses its favors.

A well known and respectable citizen, who has been in this province for more than twenty years, a pioneer, and one of the early prospectors at Cariboo, Omenica and other mining camps, made application for the situation of night watchman at the dry dock, and had every reason to hope that his application would be granted; but strange to say, the position was given to an American citizen, who has always endeavored to belittle everything pertaining to the British government. The writer of this has frequently heard him speak in the most disparaging terms of the British flag. The party who used his influence to obtain the position for the American citizen was indebted to "————" for his first employment in this province.

SCRUTATOR.

OUR PARIS LETTER.

A BUDGET OF PLEASANT GOSSIP.

(Regular Correspondence of The Colonist.)

PARIS, April 1st.

The protectionists of France are well organized and vigorously led; they were not long in taking up the gauntlet thrown down by the London chamber of commerce, to reopen negotiations for a treaty by soliciting a plebiscite of the French Chambers of commerce. The latter have just been convoked by the protectionists, and some 44 have decided not to relinquish the line of contention, viz. specific in place of ad valorem duties. The decision was at once promulgated in the senate during the debate on the Italian commercial treaty, but ostensibly intended as a reply to England. The protectionists attribute the material prosperity of France since 1860 to the development of her network of railways, and not at all to the Cobden treaty. They see in the United States the practical blessings of a home-protected trade; all parties in France, however, forget that the States equal a couple of Europes rolled into one.

MUNICIPAL.

Excepting Paris, every chief town in France can henceforth elect its mayor like the smallest village. The municipal councils are thus independent and an important step is made towards local self-government.

WARLIKE SQUIBS.

Since the battle of Dorking scare, many campaigns of the future have been sketched. The latest squib is a pamphlet, De la Spice a l'Escaut par la Marne, just published here, and that creates a great stir in Belgium. The Dutch, more phlegmatic, laugh at the imaginary campaign of 1900; when Prussia shall have wiped out France and Italy, enriched by Savoy, Corsica, Nice and Tunis. Germany will then swing round a few Corps d'Armee, and taking Holland as easily as devouring one of her red bullet cheese, will outflank the Belgians, besiege Antwerp, and absorb Flanders. The English fleet will be torpilled off Antwerp, but that misfortune will not prevent the British nation from celebrating a te deum, the other capitals of Europe in honor of German ascendancy. The truth that leaks out of this bit of fun is the necessity of France remaining strong and independent for the safety of the small, neutral states. It is not to be forgotten, however, that Napoleon III. schemed to annex Belgium, and perhaps he was most denounced, not for the attempt—but the failure.

GAMBETTA.

M. Gambetta has at last entered on the war trail. He and his henchmen have put on the paint and feathers, so the political world is less stagnant. The minister of war, General Billot, has deceived friends and foes alike in his project. It is not either a solution nor an organization. It is a makeshift, accepting the opinion of the country, obligatory military service and for three years. Gambetta grapples at the kernel of the difficulty, restraining the conditions, by which educated conscripts can retire after twelve months' active service. He will leave the right of educated service between the hands of the council of revision sitting in each military district and thus keep up a supply of instructed non-commissioned officers. Further, Gambetta would allow all promotion up to the rank of captain to proceed by seniorities.

THE HONORS OF THE MOMENT

Are for Erckmann-Chartrian. Their new drmma Les Rantzeau, representing at the Theatre Francais (after being declined at another theatre) is a great success of pathos and natural simplicity. The plot is laid in Alsace, and is based on a thirty years hate between two brothers, who are reconciled by the love of their only son and daughter.

CLIMATE

Has important influences on peoples. Following M. Blavier, a member of the Academy of Sciences, France is destined to have no more winters but a long Spring. The gulf stream is the cause of this blessing, but it is tempered with the drawback, that the sardines are seeking not so much new hanks as pastures new. So long as we have pilchards and the British Columbia Salmon nicely packed in oil or cans the luxury will hardly be missed.

CHAMPAGNE REGION

Never was more flourishing. The phylloxera has been beaten off, as the proprietors had organized watch committees when summary vengeance was instantly recked on the invading bug. Some historians trace champagne wines as far back as the Gallo-Roman period. The fourteenth century is a more reliable date, for then Francis I, Henry VIII, and Charles V, had their vineyards at Ai. When Charles V retired to his monastery he varied his clock-making by bottling and capsuling with parchment the sparkling nectar that he had transported from Ai. Under Louis XIV. the doctors prescribed champagne for every disease. It was a medicine in fact of varied efficacy, and the king's surgeon Fagon agreed with a nobleman, it was better to die on a tisone of champagne than on salts and senna. Like all favorites champagne had soon enemies. The wines of Burgundy entered the list. Champagne produced rheumatism and gout. Beaujolais affected the head and the heart. A congress of doctors was summoned to settle the questions; they ruled that both Champagne and Burgundy were equally excellent wines, and to neutralise the objectionable effects of both it was essential to drink one bottle of each. Since then that prescription is faithfully followed.

SWINDLING.

Each country is said to have peculiar phases of swindling. In Paris the two chief judges are starting some bogus industry, advertising for employés, demanding that they lodge securities and in time disappearing with the deposit. A second plan for raising the wind is to organize a club on a splendid scale in a fashionable quarter, this means the night to play: the gambling can continue till the fleecing of the pigeons becomes two nations. The founders of the "home from home" are accomplished black legs

The chancellor d'Aguesseau, with some irony and good sense, once remarked that were he accused of stealing the towers of Notre Dame he would instantly seek safety in flight. In 1880, two brothers Louis were condemned to 6 and 7 years' imprisonment for highway robbery. A prisoner undergoing a sentence received the confession of another, that it was he and two pals who committed the robbery. The matter was investigated; the innocents liberated, and the real culpables were only sentenced to thirteen months' imprisonment.

HOUSE-CLEANING.

The present is a very unpleasant moment to visit Paris. Every second house appears to have its facade scoured while armies of men in diving costume pump up cold and boiling water against the stucco. Baths can thus be had cheaply, and occasionally part of the scaffolding on your head into the bargain.

ITEMS.

When Longfellow visited Paris after an absence of 35 years, what struck him most was the change in the accent of the Parisians. The same words appeared to him strange and new. There must be some mistake in the anecdote, as the characteristic of the French of Paris is, to have no accent at all.

M. Naynet is a popular, able and chivalous deputy. He is a son of Israel. Now in the discussion for the admission of American pork, he warmly advocated the removal of all prohibitions and urged long cooking as the best remedy against trichine.

There is a story going the rounds of a certain royal mantle that found its way into the old clo' interest and was ultimately converted into a pair of pantaloons for a street boy.

"Papa, I don't like discoveries of new countries at all, because we have to lerrn more geography."
